A good reason to pick up the books this summer

Just 20 minutes of reading each day during the summer will help kids retain many of the reading and language skills they learned during the previous school year.

The Charlotte Mecklenburg Library System is always encouraging reading and learning for all ages. The library’s Summer Break program runs June 1-June 8 and features two separate challenges for participants.

Laura Fitzsimmons, the Summer Break Team co-lead for the library, told us how the program will work, explained the library’s community reading goal, and talked about some of the changes for visiting the library system buildings as they start to re-open.
